

MOVEMENTS OF THE TWO ARMIES
AFTER THE REPULSE OF MARSHAL MASSENA'S ATTACK
UPON THE POSITION OF BUSACO.

Scale of Miles. 1 Inch to 1 Mile.

REFERENCES.

- AAA. Lines of march by which the French Army withdrew from before the position of Busaco and then moved by Beatalva into the line of the Great road from Oporto to Coimbra, in order to turn the position of the Allied Army.
 - BBB. Lines of march by which the Allied Army effected a change of its position the ridge of Busaco being no longer available for checking the advance of the enemy, after he had changed his line of operations.
 - B¹ Troops under Sir Brent Spencer, K.B.
 - B² 4th Division. M. Gen. Cole.
 - B³ Light Division.
 - Packs Brigade, and two squadrons of cavalry. M. Gen. Crawford.
 - B⁴ 3rd Division. M. Gen. Pictet.
 - B⁵ 5th Division. M. Gen. Leith.
 - B⁶ Troops under. L¹ Gen. Hill.
 - B⁷ Cavalry. M. Gen. Sir Stapleton Cotton, Bart.
- N.B. The Allied troops were halted at the following places on the 29th Sept.
The troops under Sir Brent Spencer between Fornos and the River Mondego.
The 2nd Division in front of Fornos near Quezaga.
The Cavalry under Sir Stapleton Cotton at Mealhada.
The Light Division, Packs Brigade, and two squadrons of Cavalry at Lisboa.
The 3rd Division at Espos.
The 5th Division at Dousas.
The advanced guard of the French Army was on the 29th at Avellan de Camacha.

From the original survey & drawing by Major Sir T.L. Mitchell, R.E.

On Zinc by A. R. Orri.